Information pursuant to and for the purposes of art. 6, EU Regulation no. 679/16, art. 13-14, EU Reg. 2016/679 (hereinafter, GDPR).

The EU Regulation for the protection of personal data n. 679/16 is intended to ensure that the processing of your personal data is carried out in compliance with the rights of fundamental freedoms and the dignity of persons, with particular reference to confidentiality and personal identity. Therefore, it is our duty to inform you about our data privacy policy. We inform you, pursuant to and for the purposes of articles. 13-14 GDPR, that your data will be processed in the manner and for the following purposes.

The company undertakes to respect and protect the personal data voluntarily and explicitly provided by you in compliance with the provisions of the law aimed at ensuring the security, accuracy, updating and relevance of the data with respect to the purposes of consulting the site. Any personal data you provide are used for cognitive purposes for the applications installed on the site itself, and are disclosed to third parties only if this is strictly necessary and functional for this purpose. The data are processed by personnel appointed as responsible (and contractually designated sub-managers) for the processing of data, only if the processing is necessary.

1. Object of the treatment

The Data Controller processes personal data, identification (name, surname, company name, address, telephone, e-mail) - hereinafter "personal data" - communicated by you when consulting the company website, following the completion of the form at internal site to make contact requests relating to the products offered.

2. Purpose of the treatment

Your personal data are processed:

A) without your express consent (pursuant to art.6, c.1 GDPR) for the following service purposes:

- collect data for the formulation of commercial offers;
- fulfill the contractual and tax obligations deriving from any relationships signed with you;
- fulfill the obligations established by law, by the EC regulation, by community legislation or by an order of the Authority;
- exercise the rights of the owner, for example the right to defense in court;
- B) only with your specific and distinct consent (pursuant to Article 7 of the GDPR), for the following marketing purposes:
- send you via e-mail, post and / or telephone contacts, commercial communications and / or advertising material on products or services offered by the Data Controller and survey of the degree of satisfaction with the quality of services.

We would like to point out that if you are already our customers, we will be able to send you commercial communications relating to the Controller's products similar to those you have already used, unless you disagree.

3. Processing methods

Pursuant to art. 5 GDPR the processing of your data will be based on principles of correctness, lawfulness, transparency and can also be carried out through automated methods designed to store, manage and transmit them (by means of the operations indicated in art.4 n.2) GDPR and will take place by means of suitable tools to guarantee security and confidentiality through the use of suitable procedures that avoid the risk of loss, unauthorized access, illicit use and dissemination. Your personal data are subjected to both paper and digital processing.

The Data Controller will process personal data for the time necessary to fulfill the aforementioned purposes and in any case for no more than 10 years from the termination of the relationship for the purposes of supply and obligations imposed by law.

4. Communication of data

The data may be disclosed to the other employees and collaborators of the Data Controller in their capacity as data processors of the same, as well as may also be viewed by the external party who oversees our IT system and that our structure has appointed an external manager; Your data may also be disclosed to companies and / or professional firms that provide - in outsourcing - assistance, advice or collaboration to the Data Controller, in accounting, administrative, fiscal, legal, tax matters. We inform you that all our suppliers are appointed external sub-managers and subject to a validation and control process in terms of privacy and quality of the services requested.

Without the need for express consent pursuant to art. 6, c.1 GDPR, the Data Controller may communicate your data for the purposes referred to in art. 2.A) to judicial authorities, as well as to those subjects to whom communication is mandatory by law for the accomplishment of the aforementioned purposes.

Your data will not be disclosed in any other way.

5. Storage times

Your personal data will be kept for the time necessary to carry out the existing relationships between the parties and in any case not for more than 10 years from the termination of any contractual relationship established as required by law.

After this retention period, the data will be destroyed and / or deleted, without prejudice to future communications by the Data Controller or authority decisions under the law.

6. Data transfer

The data may also be communicated to suppliers (cloud and / or data store), as joint data controllers, who have signed an agreement with our company. These offices - with particular attention to any offices established in non-EU countries - have been given precise operating instructions through contractual clauses that guarantee that the data will be processed in accordance with the principles established in EU Reg. No. 679/16 also in any country destination third.

The interested party can exercise their rights towards each Joint Controller.

7. Nature of the data provision and consequences of refusal to respond

The provision of data for the purposes referred to in point 2.A) is mandatory. In their absence, we cannot guarantee the processing of your data for commercial purposes.

The provision of data for the purposes referred to in point 2.B) is optional. You can therefore decide not to provide any data or to subsequently deny the possibility of processing data already provided: in this case, you will not be able to receive commercial communications and advertising material relating to the products offered by the Data Controller.

However, you will continue to be entitled to the information referred to in point 2.A).

8. Rights of the interested parties

You have the right to ask the Data Controller for access to data concerning you, their rectification or cancellation, the integration of incomplete data, the limitation of processing; to receive the data in a structured format, commonly used and readable by an automatic device; to revoke any consent given in relation to the processing of your data at any time and object in whole or in part to the use of the data; to lodge a complaint with the Authority, as well as to exercise the other rights recognized to you pursuant to Articles 15-22 EU Regulation 679/16.

9. How to exercise your rights

You can exercise your rights at any time by sending an e-mail to the company's e-mail address. The interested party has the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority.

The updated list of managers, sub-processors, data controllers and recipients of the data is kept at the registered office of the Data Controller.

11. Changes

This information may be subject to changes. If substantial changes are made to the use of customer data by the company, this will notify the user by publishing them with the utmost emphasis on its web pages.

12. Data acquired during navigation

The computer systems and software procedures of our site acquire, during their normal operation, some personal data whose transmission is implicit in the use of Internet communication protocols. This information is not collected to be associated with identified interested parties, but which by their very nature could, through processing and association with data held by third parties, allow users to be identified. This category of data includes the IP addresses or domain names of the computers used by users who connect to the site, the addresses in the Uniform Resource Identifier (URI) notation of the requested resources, the time of the request, the method used to submit the request to the server, the possible size of the file obtained in response, the numerical code indicating the status of the response given by the server (successful, error, etc.) and other parameters relating to the operating system and the user's IT environment. The data could be used to ascertain responsibility in the event of hypothetical computer crimes against the site: except for this possibility, the data on web contacts persist for a time not exceeding that necessary for the purposes for which they are collected and subsequently treated.

On the site there is a Google Analytics SCRIPT that tracks the behavior of users on the site and a contact form that does not record any data in the DB but only sends the information by email to the recipients of the form. Cookies are "preference" (they memorize the user's preferred language and at the next access they take into account the choice) therefore persistent and technical session. The site does not collect any data internally, the data that is collected through it is then conveyed by Google Analytics and the company.

Google Analytics cookies (utma, utmz, gat, ga, gid)

Google Analytics is a web analytics tool that allows the site owner to understand how visitors interact with it. The Google Analytics tool uses proprietary cookies to monitor visitor interactions with respect to the site that uses its features. These cookies are used to store information, such as the time the current visit occurred, any previous visits to the site by the same visitor and the site that reported the web page to the visitor. The Google Analytics tool collects information anonymously and records website trends without identifying individual visitors. Browsers do not share proprietary cookies of the Google Analytics tool between various domains. The Google Analytics privacy policy describes the way in which personal information is treated at the time such tool an IP address can often be used to identify the country, province, and city from which a computer connects to the internet.

It is used. They can be consulted at:

Google Analytics collects the IP address of website visitors to provide an indication of their geographical location. This method is known as IP geolocation. Google Analytics does not report information relating to the actual IP addresses of visitors. Due to the use of a method known as IP masking, Google Analytics communicates information so that only a part of the IP address is used for geolocation, rather than the entire address.

Browser add-on for deactivating Google Analytics cookies

At https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout?hl=it it is possible to download the browser add-on for the deactivation of Google Analytics. The add-on communicates to the Google Analytics JavaScript code (ga.js) to indicate that information about the website visit should not be sent to GoogleAnalytics. The browser add-on to deactivate Google Analytics does not prevent information from being sent to the website itself. Furthermore, most browsers allow some control of most cookies through the browser settings. If the user does not wish to receive any type of cookie on his computer, he can raise the privacy protection level of his browser using the appropriate function

13. Questions, complaints and suggestions

Anyone interested in more information, to contribute their suggestions or make complaints or disputes regarding the privacy policies of the company or the way the data is processed can write an e-mail.
